

About living in love with plants, animals and humans and possibly with the one who created this earth and all the beautiful creatures with love
Uli Sommer

There are many atheists and agnostics. They reject - for understandable reasons - not only the religions and the esotericism, but also the study of these topics.

There furthermore are many people who believe that we have a soul and that there are one or more gods, spirits, angels, and other wondrous things. These things are usually hidden for us, but they are significant and we could or even "should" connect with them.

People who believe in a spiritual or "supernatural" reality are for the most part more or less active or involved in religion or esotericism.

And in between there is (almost) nothing!

Actually, we know or could we know that something is wrong with the religions. In particular, the so-called monotheistic religions live a permanent contradiction to their own teachings. The religions are responsible for wars, violence and alienation from life. Other religions, also called "nature religions", are obviously bleak and contain "wisdom" that we would be reluctant to follow if there were no compelling reasons for it. The Greek or Roman myths are such an example of a "gods family" that would not really be nice and an unbiased person would rather hope that he had nothing to do with it.

Why shouldn't we deal with religions without believing anything? Why shouldn't we think and speak about "supernatural" things without having to believe them right away, without going into religions or esoteric practices?

Of course, this is possible and, from my point of view, helpful because it opens up a lot of interesting insights for those who are doing it. I have been interested in religions all my life, I have never found a religion because everything seemed too compulsive and dishonest to me.

I have had many contacts with esoteric people in recent years. I took these people very seriously. But I could not understand that on the one hand, they were so profoundly thinking about the important things in life and knew so much about that, but that on the other hand they vehemently denied the existence of certain conspiracy(s). I could not understand that they - and this is the crucial - did not want to acknowledge, that they were recognizably living the spirituality that for example was designed by Helena Blawatski in the service of high finance many decades ago and with which she already trained Hitler. In addition, many esotericists did not want to realize that virtually all of their thought leaders and gurus make themselves known by gestures and by their thinking as a freemason or secret agent.

At the latest since this realization, which I got about the year 2008, I was upset with this game.

On the other hand, I had seen too much to want to go back to a point of view from which I wanted to deny everything supposedly "supernatural."

And no matter what I think is possible or not, it is only the one who deals with spiritual issues who makes it clear what a crucial element satanic spirituality is in the hands of the powerful, for the exercise of their power or whatever power. Those who refuse to engage in spiritual questions (even if they are completely disbelieving) can not understand what is going on on this earth. And if few of the "supernatural" things were true, engaging with this spirituality would be essential to protect oneself.

I want to say in advance: I myself came to the conviction in the course of my study of these topics that it would be NOT IMPORTANT "to believe" anything. I will tell you NOT to "worship" any god or human or any thing or anything else. I'm even assuming that they can learn from Yeshua that they need no religion, no worshipping of anything to be connected to what Yeshua calls "father." I speak of the Yeshua described in the Bible, even though the Bible, like all scriptures, is a fundamentally untrustworthy source for me.

So follow me on a homepage that may be the only home page on the web, but at least one of very few homepages that are interested in spiritual issues, but recommends to avoid religions, esotericism and worshipping of any thing, use of symbols or rites and temples of any kind from the front.

Let's start with the basic "insights" from the point of view, per example, of the Bible:

The "monotheist" religions (the religions pretending to honor only one God or saying there is only one God at all) - these religions tell of one who created this earth and all life on earth. It had been on this earth / Eden "paradisiacal" states, until the serpent came and caused a chaos, the real meaning of which most people (including me) can barely really understand.

The one referred to here is referred to as "the one who created plants, animals and men out of and with love" - or, in short, as the "loving creator". This is not a name, but a description that should describe this being or whoever or whatever it is, so clearly that a confusion with other beings, "gods" or things should be excluded. I want to distinguish the one I am talking about here from other gods or whatsoever, and I do not know any better or simpler description to avoid misunderstandings, which sometimes can be wanted.

According to this description, our "loving Creator" clearly stands for the dear life on this earth - plants, animals and people. These three could live happily and peacefully without technology, civilization and destruction in loving union for many centuries, millennia or more, even though we are nearly eight billion people.

According to tradition, the creation of this earth was based on the agreement that the angels should not interfere on this earth so that humans and other living things could have lived undisturbed and in love here. I can not tell you a source. But anyway, I do not know any source that I would believe in, I am telling this "detail" because it seems revealing to me to understand many processes in esoteric and religions because it would explain much to me. If this were true then there would definitely be no pure spiritual contact on this earth except our loving Creator, with whom we could get in touch without leaving our Loving Creator. Neither "angels of the light," nor archangels, who sound so sacred in religious writings because of their mention, would therefore be beings whom we should ask for help. The same would apply to "saints". We do not need saint worship!

Above all then a very strong and beautiful angel was not satisfied with that and demanded more for himself. When he did not get it, when our loving Creator refused to agree to the proposed deal, "he cooked his own soup" and sneaked into paradise. According to tradition, Adam's job was to protect Paradise from intruders. The fact that Adam had failed with this task or that this strong angel had turned away from our loving Creator with obviously very destructive intentions, was perhaps the really fatal process in the so-called sin fall. According to tradition, Lucifer had taken down about a third of all angels down to earth. Since they had turned away from our loving creator in this process, they no longer had their protection (how do you want to protect someone who at every opportunity acts against your good advice, and this also applies to us humans) and were on this earth they are helplessly exposed to the satanic system of power and its hierarchy. Perhaps many of those fallen angels in their hearts were not or are not malignant or destructive from the outset. But they no longer have the freedom to be truly affectionate and helpful, because they would then be persecuted, as was Yeshua of Nazareth, and how countless ordinary people are persecuted, humiliated, tortured and tortured by a fascist system.

If these are all traditions of religions, which in my view we should not trust, why do I tell you these specific statements, why could they be relevant? I think that can only be understood by someone who has dealt with the power on this earth and with their conspiratorial all-embracing networks. Someone who has understood to what extent the worldly power concentrated on one point controls any spiritual flow. Imagine, in the immediate vicinity of this earth, this power monopoly would continue in the spiritual realm. Then there would be just as few "angels" who could move independently from this one power, as Jeshua and his disciples were permanently on the run and the early Christians were murdered by the hundreds. Do you think these conditions have changed today? Do you think you could find a group somewhere or in the Internet that would give them the "true primitive Christianity" and the "true teachings without being locked away already long ago? - And in that sense: Do you think that you could "loudly" call in silent prayer for "pure, bright angels" and then appear spiritual beings who would be above the dark power all over the world?

(Fallen) Angels with love in their "hearts" who are strong enough to oppose this power would presumably also have the power to ask our loving creator for forgiveness and thus reach him again (and thus leave the earth). But if I assume that only a part of the same power rules in the close environment of the earth, which also controls the earth, then an angel, who would be connected with our loving creator, becomes very quiet and inconspicuous and only seldom in to move near ours. And if these "conspiracy theories", which I will not discuss here, are too strange to you - even in the Bible (which is not a fundamentally trustworthy book for me), there are many impressive clues as to how powerless "God" is on this earth , And I would suppose that by "God" the Bible means our loving creator in this case.

The power elite of this earth has recently been quite openly known to worship or serve Satan, Lucifer and the other fallen angels or gods. The Masonic self-image sees Satan as the "really good God" and assumes that Jesus himself was privy in a Masonic sense and therefore had actually worshipped Satan. I definitely do not want to spread this view, I definitely do not share it, I just pass on this information about the Masonic self-image. Furthermore, the Freemasons, which exist in their present form since the mid-eighteenth century, consider themselves a continuation of a power structure and civilisation that already goes back to the Egyptians, so that their system of power is based on a duty of service and secrecy, which already existed on this earth since that time.

We can now see clearly how the power elite of this earth is driving the enslavement of humans, animals, and even plants, systematically destroying this earth, including the basic resources we need to live. This suggests that their connection to their satanic religion is indeed marked by the spirit of an "antagonist" who turns against the loving Creator or at least against the creation of the life on this earth. This spirit is not only directed against the physical basis of life. Obviously, the powerful of this earth are struggling through the media, the increasingly fascistic power systems, through the culture, that we humans are unable to the loving connection to each other, to all other life (plants and animals) and to independent life in general. They systematically guide us to participate directly or indirectly, for example through consumption, in the creation of suffering and to take responsibility for suffering and destruction. I personally suspect that the really powerful ones are either so directly manipulated, brainwashed or simply occupied that they can no longer pursue their own interests, or that they no longer rely on a life on this planet, but that they have a plan to leave this earth after the destruction they have done. I have no idea how to do that. But the completeness of the destruction they are visibly operating indicates that they seem to have no interest, even the rudimentary conservation of this earth. I also can not believe that they do not overstate the consequences of their actions because they are very well informed about these consequences. Also, I exclude purely economic interest or pure geostrategic interests. Money and power have the really powerful circles in a degree that few people can imagine.

Therefore, before I even begin to believe anything, I can quickly decide for myself by the imagery of this simple spiritual information that in any case, if I seek a spiritual connection, I seek the connection to the one, who has created plants, animals and humans with love and in no case to fallen angels. If people tell me there is a better god in reality, then I have no way to compare gods in themselves and to rate them for me. But if on this earth the quality of the different spiritual connections is so clearly recognisable on the "fruits", then at least I know exactly which gods I do not want to honour. In any case, if I love this earth and all dear life on this earth. Of course I continue to find it sad that our lives are also based on eating other lives, but that is another dimension than systematically destroying lives and sowing hatred and suffering, as we can recognise it at the religions of the powerful people of this earth.

Furthermore, the simple attribution to me that life without civilisation and at least very little technique is intended by our loving creator and could be in equilibrium for a very long time, whereas the system of civilisation, systems of power, escalating technology, of Consumption and the isolation of all humans is assigned with the fallen angels, especially with Satan and Lucifer.

Actually, for me personally, the direct perception of the destruction of this earth by Satanists is one of the clearest indications that the loving Creator could exist, because this bitter struggle against life on this earth is hardly explainable or comprehensible without hostility to this loving Creator.

For the connection to our loving creator, we obviously need no rites, symbols, religions or well-defined beliefs. We are connected with him from birth and we can easily recognise him in all things life on this earth, connecting with him in this.

To be connected to him, it is enough to live in love with plants, animals and people.

The Bible too knows no symbols or rituals, which would be necessary for connection with "god" and on the other hand nearly all symbols and rituals can be found to be part of other religions or to lead to other "gods".

This statement and some of the following statements are from Jegoo (see informations). I have no prove for the validity of those statements, but I simply regard them to be logical or obvious.

Misfortunes happen to all of us, and we harm others. These events remove us from our "brothers and sisters", also among the plants and animals. That does not mean that we should not eat plants and animals. Unfortunately, that's what we have to do to survive. But if we recklessly deal with living beings, we will move away from them. To heal this distance, we can go to forgiveness. We can ask those we have damaged for forgiveness and, of course, forgive those who have harmed us. By the way, forgiveness does not mean to tolerate. At the same time, I can say to one person that I forgive her and, if necessary, in the same breath, say that a harmful and unfair behavior on his part will not be tolerated from now on and in case of doubt he will try to prevent it with the necessary means. Furthermore, I can ask for forgiveness without having a direct conversation with the person with whom I am involved in a bad way, simply by saying this out of my heart when a conversation with the person in question is not possible.

This forgiveness liberates us immensely, for it frees the paralyzing entanglement that has resulted from injustice, in both directions. And it re-establishes the loving bond with those whom we have harmed or who have harmed us.

And through the loving connection to plants, animals and people we are almost automatically connected to our loving Creator. More is not needed! Much more will not bring us closer to our loving Creator.

And then there is the sharing. If people live in wealth and show no compassion for needy people, then that certainly can not be described as life in love. It's certainly not about carelessly squandering his belongings. But those who are confronted with the need of honest people, will recognize in such encounters whether he has a heart.

The religions can not connect us with our loving creator. The names, rites, images and symbols used in them lead us to the "fallen angels" already described in the monotheistic religions. Let's be clear: the term "monotheistic" does not apply to Judaism, Christianity and Islam, for example. Even in the Bible, the Ten Commandments state, among other things, that we should not serve any other gods. This statement makes no sense if these other gods do not exist, because then service to them would in the worst case be harmless. Fallen angels, angels or gods are described in all religions.

It's about accepting one another in love, sharing, and forgiveness.

It will not be harmful to pray. However, it already is enough if you only want the things that are close to your heart. More (and that too) is not required to be associated with our Loving Creator. What you say and wish, hears our loving creator and your wishes are a concern to him, he will support them as far as possible and possibly as far, as the fulfillment of wishes is really helpful. If you desire pure wealth, validity, or power, he probably will not think you are in connection with him. And if you love him, you can delight him most if you simply live in love with all the plants, beasts, and humans of this earth, and if you avoid the destructive system of civilization, as well as the (destructive) service of fallen angels. No, Jealous in the true sense is not our loving creator for my opinion. He just wants to see his creation flowering, loving and living in joy. That is, in my opinion, everything he wants. We do not need religion, beliefs, symbols or rites to fulfill this in order to be close to it.

Incidentally, our loving Creator does not "judge". He does not decide who comes to heaven and who does not. He does not count on any deeds or even avenge misdeeds.

It is up to us whether we choose it or not. Whoever chooses the loving connection to our loving Creator (and thus necessarily goes into the loving connection with plants, animals and people), will probably be confronted after his death with many things he has done to plants, animals or humans and it is up to us to go to forgiveness in order to remain in loving connection with them, or even to get into this connection in the first place. It is certainly not an easy hurdle for us, from the complete blindness, conformation, constipation, and alienation of all the dear life that we all on this earth are forced to undergo, to really find in the cordial connection to our origin. But most of all, it's up to us to seek and go that way.

After our death, just as we experience it on earth in the many religions, we will once again recognise various offers for the "most beautiful, most comfortable and lush of skies" or simply for the "only true and right heaven" (which by no means is the heaven of our loving Creator), so that we might not need to confront ourselves with our misdeeds with life and our distance to life and love. Presumably, after our death, the struggle for souls continues, which we have already been able to get to know in the esoteric and in the religions on earth.

And, presumably, the spiritual imprint acquired on Earth will have a major impact on OUR free choice of one of the many "heavenly" heavens offered. Yes, and then everyone has to decide for themselves whether he expects a "heaven" of fallen angels or Satan to live in happily after death. Presumably, the various offerings will build on all the imprints that we have acquired in life through symbols, tattoos, images of saints, rituals and divine ideas, so that one or the other "heaven" seems to us as if it were the "right one". How should we be able to differentiate between our lives, where we want to go, if we could not distinguish ourselves already on earth, where so much is clearly recognisable, and let us lead us into the "right" religion? Here decides our alertness, our love, our incorruptibility and truthfulness against temptations about our skill!

Hints for this life after death in this heaven provide the handling of the fallen angels with chickens for egg production on this earth. Our loving creator certainly did not want that. The lovelessness of the servants of the fallen angels is the cause of chicken-cage attitude and the connection of these farms to these satanic religions is recognisable. In that sense, there is definitely no hell that entertains our loving Creator, but we have the free choice to go to the Heaven we are coming from or to another, if we promise anything of it. However, if the apocalypse were to apply to a particular point, deviating from what we have just said, we might have to share in the eschatological battle for that earth in the "heaven" of the fallen angels their horrible destiny describing the apocalypse, the earth to liberate from these fallen angels. But a purgatory, which serves to purify souls, I do not believe.

The spiritual fraud

What consequences it can have, how we can recognize it and protect ourselves from it

I had last talked about the effect of wishing in connection with our loving Creator. However, in a very similar way, people can basically speak to all kinds of spiritual beings or "gods" and can be supported. The power of the fallen angels should not be underestimated to do miracles, to heal, or to do other things. For example, whoever wants a lot of money, power, and power in life, more than he needs for a healthy life, may be more successful in connecting with fallen angels than with our loving Creator. However, in most cases he will have to enter into a contract for this assistance in which he is also committed to a service. This may be the sale of his soul, as it is reported by countless stories. Today many pop stars report this of themselves, whereas the way of life, the openly displayed satanic symbolism and the sad fate of these stars seems to support this Statement.

The countless stories about the sale of the soul suggest that our soul has a tradable value. In a trade we could receive something for selling our own soul.

What is not told, but what should be obvious, is that the misleading of other souls could be payed off in a similar way, if those souls would then come into the power of those forces, angels, gods or whatsoever.

I'm concerned, as probably you too: I can not imagine how someone should consume or kidnap a soul and derive from it a benefit or only a pseudo-benefit for themselves. But this is exactly what all these fairy tales postulate, this is demonstrated in the hostile trilogy "Matrix", as the novel "Momo" by Michael Ende shows in a brilliant way - brilliant because its description of the alienation of humans from each other and from everything what nourishes us so precisely on exactly what we are experiencing today and what continues in the absurd even in recent years.

The most perfidious kind of delusion is the misleading of religious people, who are promised the connection to our loving Creator, but who, through the rites, symbols, and imagery, are led into truly existing relationships with other gods or fallen angels. Even though I am not sure about the assignment of the Ten Commandments to our loving Creator Himself (in the archetype of the Bible we are talking about YHWH or Yahweh and I do not know if this name really means someone else), it is significant which weight has the picture ban. In the third version in Ex 34,12ff it is pointed out in manifold ways, how by the contact of the people with other peoples the creeping worship of other gods could take place. Stone paintings, culture piles and metal casts are mentioned, which would have to be destroyed.

Regardless of who conveys this message, it conceals a fear or knowledge about the means by which a spiritual connection can be easily diverted. It sounds like you just put another woman in the bed of a husband at night who would not notice. There are also dramas about it. But while I could normally see, smell, and feel a woman on a daily basis, and while it might not be so easy to fool me with a strange woman, I lack the sure senses to see our loving Creator so clearly. I feel like most people even a certain uncertainty about whether he exists at all. If I do not listen to these warnings, it will in principle be much easier to sell me the loving creator and fraudulently "put to bed" another god through various rites and symbols.

Yes, and what is described here in the Ten Commandments of the Bible, takes place daily in the churches, in the Jewish and Islamic religious communities. This also happens in the other religions, but here, too, the connection to our loving Creator is not promised, but from the outset the connection to the respective other gods. For the same reason this is not necessary useful.

Add to this the whole veneration of saints (including the images of the saints) and especially the veneration of Mary. The Freemasons themselves openly announce in public television that they have introduced the Isis cult into the churches by the seemingly veneration of Mary. And I know esoteric people, they go to church, say to me that they have tried "Christianity", they introduce themselves to the figure of Mary and experience a "deep divine connection". The whole "Hocus-pocus" stinks so to heaven! The churches are filled with symbols that are not explained and definitely have nothing to do with the loving Creator. Especially the cross and especially the representation of the dying Jeshua on this cross can not be understood other than as an act against Jeshua and his father. Already the Egyptians or even the Celts knew crosses with symbolic value. And that the introduction of the cross was a dream inspiration of Emperor Constantine, who then, according to the message from the dream, won a battle in this sign, can not possibly be connected with our loving Creator.

How can all the Christians (including the Protestant and other Christian denominations) escape so completely that Christianity or church life, including the summary of various religious scriptures on the Bible, was carried out by the hardest enemies of Jeshua and that these themselves now violate the main messages of the written Bible to the gravest and injure to this day?

The Masonic system is so tightly woven worldwide that no at least medium-sized group, religious community, government, political party, or non-governmental organization can resist infiltration and significant influence from the Earth's ruling elite.

It is illusory to think that powerful institutions like the churches are not completely subjugated to this satanic power. The leadership elite of the churches and all major religions has been satanic through and through since the time of churches. They pretend to preach wine, but they administer spiritually poisoned wine and even drink manure.

Against this background, it surprises many and until recently also me, why nevertheless the Church spread so much beautiful in the Bible, why probably so much truth is still in the books, if they had the power, to dedicate this much more directly their own interests or to the interests of the gods whom they serve.

The answer was recently given by a friend who said, "The bastards really believe they need to tell us what they're going to do with us, because only if you could do it without resistance, could they do it, without inflicting karmic damage on themselves. "

So that's what they would think for themselves. They would try to tell us what they were up to, and they would try to get at least our tacit approval. The point is that we ourselves take responsibility for the crimes that the fallen angels want to carry out and that they can do only with the help of human beings. Only the highest people in the Masonic power pyramid know about the actual intentions. But they are also careful not to get their hands dirty, but instead they try to get others lower in the pyramid to do the dirty work in order to get less of the bad "karma" themselves. "Karma" is of course a New Age term, but maybe there is such a thing as a damaging energy that can only come from the rage of injured beings.

This statement about the Masonic self-understanding, even if I can not provide evidence for the correctness, explains for me an incredible amount. Why are there so many Youtubers who reveal to us, in astonishing candor, the abysses of this satanic system, who sometimes let us assume themselves to be part of Freemasonry by signs they show, and which have such high audience numbers that the powerful would have silenced them long ago, though they stood in their way. Why do so many movies from the satanic Scientology Hollywood have so much critical information about the conspiracy?

This information would explain everything. The powerful and / or the fallen angels see it as their duty or necessity to inform us about their plans and probably also about the basics of the reality in which we move.

Of course they prefer to give this task to agents who have otherwise lost their credibility, so that we give this information little meaning or belief, because the truth is so abstruse anyway, that no human endures. Or / and they hand over the task of enlightenment to future "heroes" who thus build them to keep us trapped in their institutions.

In the case of the churches, that makes sense. The Bible would contain for the most part truthful representations. At one point or another it is simply not mentioned that a mentioned "God" is not the loving Creator, but another God. We do not realize that or worship that other god. And all the rites, symbols, we go unintentionally, but on our own responsibility, (we were warned in the 10 commandments) in the connection, which we would never have come in the clear mind.

And the "only, good, true and right (or judging) God" of the churches then takes us as a reward in his heaven. And this "only, good, true, and right God" of the churches is then Lucifer, Satan, or whatever God, but not our loving Creator. This supposed "homage" to the fallen angels, which I here half ironically refer to as "the only, good, true and right gods" that annoys many Christians, I take to myself to make people wake up. So many people believe they are connected to God. Yes, of course with the only God, "there is only one", the "only, good, true and right". Super - and the symbols have connected us with that? So what do the people think, to whom they are connected to believe in? What do you think the "only, good, true, and right God" of the churches is when the think tanks behind these churches worship Satan? I also like to call him (Satan) the "Almighty". Of course he likes to hear that, because that is his claim, that's what he wants to portray on this earth. He would like to have total power over this earth and he wants to give his sheep the feeling that he already has that today. Fortunately, he probably does not have it, because then there would not be the slightest sign of free life, of love and there would be no more these despite the destruction still wonderful landscapes with wild plants and fewer and fewer wild animals. Our loving Creator is probably the much stronger one. But unlike Satan, he probably does not value the title "Almighty," because he feels much closer to ordinary people. "In his image" we humans were created by him.

If we envision the all-encompassing power of the satanic power elite, it is logical that no religion, no church, and no temple on this earth is dedicated to our loving Creator, who also, as we believe in Jeshua's words, desires no temples or religious communities. Since we have the connection to "our Father", our loving Creator, we do not need symbols for Him. This is different with the fallen angels. All the magic and symbolism are the methods to connect with fallen angels. Our loving Creator would never make us contract offers or provide conditions for "working together". We are in contact with him when we live in love and otherwise we have effectively turned away from him and spurned his protection. Of course, we have spurned his protection when we support or worship the destroyers of this earth, the fallen angels or the lodges on this earth. Contracts or conditions are thus sure signs that we are not in communication with our loving Creator. This already applies, for example, to church tax.

It is often said that fallen angels could not incarnate in human bodies, but they would long for it very much. It is also reported that the fallen angels have the physical power to do a great deal of things directly on this earth. But in that case it would be easy for our loving Creator to slander and prevent them. Only through the use of the free will of humans can they therefore work on this earth - and in that they have attained a remarkable perfection. Even in the Bible, it is written that in the end times, Satan would hold all power over the earth. The Bible tells how Satan would have offered Jeshua power over the whole world if he would submit to the power of Satan. Jeshua did not respond by saying that this power was not Satan's, but he simply refused submission. These are already strong indications of who (in many ways on this earth) is "Almighty God". Thus, the so-called theodicy question is answered to some extent. The question is, "Why does God allow all the terrible things on earth?" This question is of course Satan's point of view with the utmost pleasure. Satan is proud of all his terrible deeds, our loving creator is probably all this cruelty his greatest pain. And now theologians are running around and bringing people against God, in which they blame him for the tacit acquiescence of all these atrocities. Both the Flood and the story of Sodom and Gomorrah hint at the means that seem to be in the hands of a God or possibly our loving Creator to save in a totally lost situation. He only seems to have the freedom to destroy everything, so that he can make a fresh start with a small group of dear souls. That certainly does not make our loving creator without need and only when nothing else works. Some also attribute the sinking of Atlantis, the one or the other ice age, or the recurring catastrophes according to the Mayans, so that these catastrophes could have been a kind of apocalypse or purification of fallen angels, extraterrestrials or other vermin. Consequently, our loving Creator would have the power to destroy all the vermin in a terrible blow, and thus be mightier than all the less love. But he would not be "all-powerful" towards the fatal events on a small scale. Yes, and that's why I like to use the term "Almighty," of course, half ironic, so that super religious people make a head, with whom they are connected when they constantly ride around on the "omnipotence" of the "Almighty". The one who likes to take this title may not be our loving creator, but the one who would like to be omnipotent and who in any case finds it super beautiful when people worship him as the "Almighty".

If people allow themselves to be seduced into following the fallen angels and so accepting their destruction, then our loving Creator has no chance if he does not want to work with the same means of power - and he probably does not want that. The story of Jeshua and the subsequent persecution of primitive Christians also testify to the difficulty of creating something like a rudimentary information point for love in the presence of the fallen angels. The situation today is exactly the same as in the time of Jeshua. It is possible that we are actually heading for the apocalypse precisely where the cruelty of the world power into absolute fascist aggravates.

Many say that people have always expected an end time, why should it happen right now? Of course I do not know. But when I observe how the power elite is preparing (at the moment) the most bizarre fascist dictatorship, openly introducing global censorship, organizing wars, spreading openly the fascist religious delusions of the Islamists through intelligence services, and like them quite frankly preparing the implanted microchip of the world population, which is obviously the "Mark of the Beast" announced in the Apocalypse, then I have to say that without any "end time faith" we are sliding into a time when the Apocalypse is slipping with the promise of a Life on a renewed and demon-liberated world is a hope. Anyone who realizes what is really going on here on Earth can see hope in the Apocalypse. I know, that sounds weird.

Regardless of whether this end time has begun, it is unmistakable that the powerful are preparing to take the religious madness to the extreme. Everywhere esoteric "peace activists" are around, who have pasted on their cars the symbols of all possible religions at once. Sure, "if all religions unite, then there will be peace"? Create problems and then offer the solution that best suits your interests.

Yes, and chipping is being driven openly today. People should accept a microchip implanted under the skin as their sole means of payment. "Whoever does not have it (the mark of the beast) will not be able to buy or sell." - says the apocalypse. Here you can find more information about the implanted microchip.

The worldwide uniform religion, which honors fallen angels and the mark of the beast, so presumably the implanted microchip, are two very important messages of the apocalypse (ie the last 30 and therefore very readable pages of the Bible). It is therefore to be feared that the efforts to force people into the veneration of the fallen angels with chaos, fear, with the most trite tricks and threatened violence, will increase in the near future.

The major part of the catastrophic event is obviously and recognizably made by Satan's powerful servants. We already have a World War going when we look at the number of wars in which Russians and Americans are simultaneously hostile (in the year 2018). The waste of resources and poisoning of the earth has increased in the last few years many times over. Many countries are driven openly and in constructed crises to ruin. Bank officials assume state-leading functions. A worldwide economic and financial crash is being prepared. Conflicts with violent foreigners are initiated in Europe. The danger posed by the refugees would obviously not exist without the direct involvement of our own governments and intelligence services. So the powerful have really prepared a huge fireworks of crises everywhere. Even the concentration camps ("fema camps") are already prepared worldwide.

If I were to be right in this fear, then it would also be important for people who have so far kept away from religions by their common sense, who live in love, but who were otherwise rather agnostic, to understand these connections, Not so that they begin to believe, but to understand how right they have been in rejecting religion so that they can continue to distance themselves from the religions or from the one-world religion that may be offered. In fact, there is the sad experience that military pastors have profoundly exploited to make people religious in the face of death, fear, or existential crisis. I hope that all this does not happen. But if it does happen, then the one or the other reader may remember that we have the opportunity to speak to our loving Creator, but that if we are on the way of worshipping some crude gods or the "Almighty" Church God do not find to him.

By the way, in the book of the Apocalypse I can read out two important spiritual survival advices that are repeated many times over: Do not get chipped and stay away from religion. I find it remarkable, what advice the powerful church leaves us so.

How can I find out about what is going on on this earth?

Through the books "Die Insider" by Garry Allen and "Die 13 satanischen Blutlinien" by Robin de Ruiter (available only through the small publisher "Pro Fide Catholica") I began to understand how the conspiracy works. Garry Allen makes a rather unsympathetic impression, he acts unnecessarily right-sided and violent. He goes to so much trouble to base his statements on sources that I hardly know any economic experts who doubt his statements. The book makes a well-researched research and confines itself largely to the economic and political aspects of history. Robin de Ruiter, on the other hand, claims to have sneaked into the high power circles and thus acquired insider knowledge himself. This statement is difficult to believe in itself. If someone wants to go high, he must have already demonstrated his willingness to commit the most serious crimes (and thus already caused a lot of damage). Thus, the reader does not have the opportunity to verify the said. However, the key messages from de Ruiter are confirmed in so many sources and even on television in one way or another, so that the book nevertheless seems believable on the bottom line and most likely reflects in its fundamentals the truth. It essentially ties up a meaningful relationship between otherwise known facts. However, this book is so bleak that the reading of a sensitive person will lead to a certain time of depression. That was the case with me. It makes no sense to "pull in" such gloomy content on the ongoing band. On the other hand, it is not possible to find solutions if we refuse the gloomy truth. Anyone who mentally goes down at least once in the valley, in which we are unfortunately, will find that there are ways down there and that it can go up. If you want to stay up or float out of fear, you will never find these hopeful ways.

To the conspiracy - the Five Eyes

Oh yes - Speaking of "conspiracy-hammer" - if someone wants to cheat you off as a "conspiracy theorist" in the sense of distance from reality:

Be very calm, because in the meantime, almost all people have understood in-depth that this world is led by a self-empowered elite that has never outed the world openly.

Just ask if the person knows the "Five Eyes". In fact, in the meantime, all the secret services of the most powerful countries in the world have joined forces to form a solid alliance. Ask your interviewee if he knows someone who leads or controls this association, and if he knows anybody on this earth, such as the oh-so-powerful American president, who might put this union in his place or just forcefully intervene who could fight Five Eyes (how was it with Kennedy?). According to Wikipedia, the Five Eyes were initiated in 1946, beginning with the so-called "UKUSA Agreement" between England and the USA. Already in 1955 Germany joined as a partner. According to Wikipedia, the existence of these treaties was only publicly confirmed in 1999. So if such an incredible accumulation of power exists in secret for more than 50 years, if this power was known to be able to initiate or significantly influence wars, and worldwide, If this power is positioned in so-called democratic countries, but does not democratically legitimize itself with the best will, nor does it even state how and by whom this power is exercised - yes, how else do we call such a "phenomenon" than as "Conspiracy," better known as a one-world conspiracy?

If this person does not want to go further, avoid any further discussion. This person will probably bring their own agenda, which they will not openly tell them. This person probably does not even speak out of personal conviction. It's like a record with a scratch, lost love.

Satanic Christianity

Later, through the study of the religions, I realized the existence of satanic Christianity, which Satan conceives as the "really good god" and which also sees Yeshua as a Satanist. I repeat: I assume that Yeshua was alive and that after what he said in the Bible, he did not honor Satan, but the one I call our loving Creator. That in the Bible, among other things in the Old Testament and sometimes without appropriate explanation, the "gods" were exchanged, as the Masons believe, I think that is possible and even probable. But I definitely will not make Satan or other fallen angels my gods, as Freemasons openly do. For me, the key source of this insight was a book in which Masons openly recruit new members. In the sense of self-representation, there is not the slightest doubt in the authenticity of the book for me. However, as I have already been accused in connection with the naming of this book, I would subtly promote Freemasons, I call this book not here. I urge everyone not to join alliances that contain the elements of secrecy and service as a condition for accession. It is also completely illusory to gain access to valuable information or to do something good. To achieve this, unfortunately, these associations usually require the proof of sufficiently destructive action, which stands in the way of positive participation. As a free person, you can definitely do more, despite all visible limitations. That is actually the essential content of this homepage. This realization led me to write my first relevant homepage many years ago: minimalreligion.de. At that time I used the term "soul of the universe" for "my God".

Jegoo

In the summer of 2015, I met Jegoo (Jens Gordon Gerbracht) at the Monday vigil in Braunschweig. Although I had been looking at these questions with almost anyone interested until then, I really had not found a single person who would have shown interest or openness in these questions. Jegoo was thus the first person with whom I could not only talk about these questions, but who had strengthened me in most of my findings and who had also gained even more significant further insights. Already in the first half hour of our first encounter, my world view had expanded to include very substantial content, which for me from this point onwards represent largely irrefutable statements. The most important statements for me were as follows: Jegoo confirmed the existence of "that created plants and animals and people out of and with love" and that in fact differs from everything we are served in religions more or less subtly. He also confirmed the existence of the fallen angels as a major cause of all the crap going on here on Earth. By the way he explained their effects, I was also aware of the limitations of our loving creator's ability to work on this earth, though he is nevertheless by far the more powerful in comparison to all other angels or gods. From this point of view or knowledge, it becomes clear to me what great significance our actions, and even the actions of very few dear people, on this earth are and will be for the working of our loving Creator. And he showed me how careful we must be to avoid somehow letting us get into all this crap and a more or less subtle connection with the fallen angels.

This entire Homepage plant animals and human.de should more or less reflect the most important statements that I have heard from Jegoo. Jegoo does not have the opportunity to write in this form, which is why I take this according to my options. Unfortunately, we do not have the opportunity to work together on this homepage, so that this homepage can not be understood as a word by Jegoo. Since I have dealt with the issues dealt with on this homepage a long time ago, I stand behind all statements that I make on this homepage with my own conviction. Since I also do not want to simply believe what I can not see directly, I also articulate this openness in various places and justify why I regard different statements as meaningful and helpful anyway.

Why can we find so many insightful sources?

Time and time again, I have wondered why despite the perfidious and comprehensive system of power, so much information is still available even in times when censorship is actually already fully installed. Why does the Catholic Church use the Bible to represent a book in which, despite all the supposed lies, there is probably so much truth left?

In response to this question, I see the following reasons, among others:

Only through the credibility, which can be conveyed by at least partially true information, can the more alert citizens be kept in the system or be tied to the information channels. If the powerful were to lose the more alert citizens completely, they would probably be more likely to wake up other citizens as well. Ultimately, in this relatively open information policy of the powerful again reflects the actual resilience of humanity against this destructive system. Not only did humanity fail, but a few righteous, truth-seeking, loving and courageous citizens were likely to be able to prevent much suffering and even worse delusion from humanity.

It is only through the availability of certain information that we have the free opportunity to decide for or against the satanic system or for or against individual elements of this satanic system. For those who are really powerful, as I said before, it is more important, that we take on as much as possible (joint) responsibility for the destruction of the earth and for the suffering inflicted on living beings, than simply wanting to destroy it. And they can only give us that responsibility if we had the chance to know the alternatives, even if they make it extremely difficult for us to recognize them out of the confusion of fraud. But, after all, they want to misguide our souls as one of their most important goals, and that is only through our free will and thus our ability to choose between the alternatives we know. If we had never known our loving Creator, then within the limits of our intelligence we could only choose between the union of exclusively fallen angels. That would not be a free decision.

And, moreover, the powerful and their more in-person lackeys want to shift as much of the guilt or responsibility for destruction to deeper members of the pyramid or unsuspecting idiots who do not understand how they can thereby "get the bad karma" for those acts themselves, to say it in the New Age language that the system lackeys think.

From this point of view, we may also find meaningful information in every horrible Scientology Hollywood action movie. It is not for nothing that the Matrix trilogy and other gritty dramas are popular among conspiracy theorists. By the way: Can you find many references to life, plants or dear animals (and no monsters) in these thrillers? At most in romantically transfigured manner outside the centers of power, but hardly in the actual places of the spectacle. The film "Avatar" is an interesting exception, which also offers many references to the views expressed on this website. By the way, in "Avatar" of course the transhumanist agenda is served full steam. And the fact that the solution can only be found through a violent war with many victims is symptomatic in the same way that Hollywood knows no conflict-resolution strategies other than violence and power. And of course the representation of the spirituality of the natives as shamanic romance is well served by the eso scene. Otherwise, this film really has some very touching aspects about what a love-life between plants, animals and humans might look like (and that has nothing to do with shamanism).

The "New Age Agenda"

The video "Aquarius: The Age of Evil (Full Movie)" (in English) shows in a very good way, how the leading Satanists in the service of the power elite provided the basis for practically all esoteric currents of the present. It shows how the "doctrine of salvation" of the "Age of Aquarius", in which everything would simply improve on its own thanks to the awakened consciousness of the people, was first developed and articulated by the same Satanists who once advised Hitler and in the service of high finance promoted his ascent from the spiritual side. That is very impressive. Anyone who has seen this documentary does not really want to do anything with channeling, shamanism and other esoteric practices. He will also be very sensitive to all sorts of promises of salvation, which announce from a purified humanity alone an overcoming of the current world dictatorship with their wars. In theory, I believe it is conceivable that people save themselves, even alone about their consciousness, their love and their clearly articulated will. But if the "apostles" of this rescue movement make use of the philosophy of their tormentors, if the rescue system has been developed by the satanic system of destruction, then logically enough, that can not be the case.

Something "lawyer"

An excellent account of the development of the laws, starting from the Roman Empire, was provided by the "Mensch Holger" in his remarks on the FRG in Part 1 and Part 2 (both in German). He shows how this system of laws, which in principle is valid until today, all People of this earth declared to be slaves, who ultimately under the power of the Roman emperor subordinate or today formally the pope as supreme slave owner. It shows how we are forced in this system to recognize these laws through various signatures and thus to legitimize this apparently satanic system with our free will.

What Holger does not say because he probably does not realize it is that there is a law from our loving creator, or more precisely, a fundamental right.

And that is the right to live. Every human being has the right to live freely on this earth without external compulsion or tribulation. And no one has the right to interfere with this right (except, I suppose, unless he must do so to protect his own right to live).

The important thing about the right of life that our loving Creator provides for every human being is that, formally acknowledged by the recognition of Roman laws by birth certificate, identity card and haste, we recognize the Roman laws and detach ourselves from the protection of the right of life. As a result, the powerful believe again to be able to derive a justification to suppress the people. And it will be harder for our loving Creator to protect the loved ones.

Our loving creator presumably has less to do with laws because love governs everything for him.

The seers

I also recommend to deal with Alois Irlmaier and Rose Stern, who interprets the old seer Nostradamus. Both of these sources are believed to have a spiritual connection with ISIS. As a matter of principle, I do not trust these sources. But both seers have been able to show that their predictions had an enormous hit rate. Together with other seers, they draw a comparatively uniform picture of the path to the Third World War and many of the foreseen events have already occurred, although the statements of the seers must have sounded completely abstruse to their own lives. You can simply enter both names in Youtube to search and receives a variety of videos offered.

The fact that both seers do not say anything about the implanted microchip, but that is actually being driven forward in many countries today, shows that they should not really have the task of warning people about a really significant issue. But maybe you can just help us survive the coming World War.

Christian sources and sources about christianity

Outstanding education about Satanism also within the Church provide these videos:

youtube.com/watch?v=luj6esWNWSc;

youtube.com/watch?v=V8CXYjmEQU8;

youtube.com/watch?v=baHRqGHQgDE.

I distance myself from the partial Bible faith of the speakers. However, this is not disturbing, because they show the inner contradictions to the Bible. The mendacity of the Vatican could hardly be more obvious than displayed simply by the photos of the Vatican's audience hall, built in 1971:

collective-evolution.com/2017/11/17/the-dark-secrets-behind-the-popes-audience-hall-its-a-giant-reptilian/

The "Infokrieger mit Christlicher Mission" provides a lot of information on his Youtube channel.

Increasingly, he was "professionalized", offered animated images of spirits and has even ennobled even the aggressive approach of Trump against Korea as a proper behavior. The Bible-believing Jewish Christian, who does not reveal his name, has thus disqualified himself in all his credibility. Interestingly, however, is his more than five-hour video "Bible Studies - from Eden to the End Times", which throws a slightly different view of the narrative story from the Bible. It is not clear to me at the edge whether it was always the same God or if it was our loving Creator who accompanied the Israeli people through the history of the Bible. All Bible Students known to me testify that at least in the Old Testament different gods are described. Nonetheless, it is interesting to note the video as it shows that almost the entire world, in his view, could be the Israeli people of God. The lost tribes have spread all over the world. There are still some unanswered questions, as it would be, for example, with other races of humanity. But the video shows in a very moving manner how the history of humanity might be a struggle of our loving Creator (in the video, of course, is said by Yahweh) against the permanent misdirection of humanity by fallen angels and, as in this sense, the deluge just as the liberation from Egypt was a desperate attempt to liberate humanity and how these events could have parallels to the potentially imminent end-time.

Ivo Sasek operates a number of high-quality information portals in Switzerland, such as klagemauer.tv. The political information is largely clean-researched and Sasek reveals many significant scandals of the church. He himself also does not enjoy real trust in me, I do not know what kind of spirituality he really lives.

The Bible

Oh yes, then there would also be the Bible as a source of information. I confess, I'm having a hard time with this book. I have started to read through them several times, and I stopped each one when it came to my mind, most recently with the exact description of the construction of the Ark of the Covenant, in which "God" wanted to be carried around by his people. Nor did I find the ravages of rests and laws which "God" or Yahweh wanted to impose on men almost intelligible. For many Christians, the Bible is the "pure and unadulterated Word of God." But for that alone, the genesis of the Bible in the responsibility of the last Roman emperors and their papal successors is too uncertain for me. In addition, I am very much "Agnostic" and rely more on the quality of the said, as I would blindly trust any book. My feeling today tells me that the Bible contains much more truth than even many Christians would believe, but in a few places the context has been changed a tiny bit so that readers can not understand the profound meaning and context completely mislead. The most important means of misguidance might be to imply false assumptions about their position with our loving Creator and his adversaries in various figures and spirits. For example, using the example of the Exodus with the Ark of the Covenant, this could mean that the God who had the Ark of the Covenant built (which presumably really existed and exists) might just have been a different God without the reader being told. In order to avoid misunderstandings: I have no knowledge about this and I do not want to claim this on the specific example given. I will only indicate by way of example how such a changed context can turn a possibly true story into a complete misguidance. This is my personal feeling for the Bible. It is probably a book with some of the most significant information that the inexperienced can barely decrypt, but which can be misused in the hands of the powerful in a variety of ways to completely mislead ordinary citizens.

In any case, I recommend reading the first approximately 30 pages of the Bible (Genesis or Creation History), the last approximately 30 pages of the Bible (the Apocalypse, Revelation, or "End Times"), the 10 Commandments in Exodus 20 or 2. Buch Moses, 20 (especially in the Catholic Unity Bible, in the Luther Bible, I could not find the so informative warning for the obligation to serve the other gods) and the reading of the Sermon on the Mount.

Significantly, these pages are not (only) because of their possible truth content, but above all because they are often implicitly referenced in spiritual contexts. For example, for the first time, I have clearly recognized the satanic orientation of the Masons from the correspondence of the Masonic promises with the words of the serpent of Genesis. Anyone who has internalized these few pages of the Bible can see much in the religions and spirituality as a clear positioning in the Bible's sense - on one or the other side. The "apocalypse" or "revelation" is important to me because of some of the events that we can experience today. I also find it interesting to read the Apocalypse with the question, what could a human being do to find "God"? I come especially to two things repeated in the Apocalypse:

- "Do not let yourself be chipped" (in the Apocalypse, of course, the "mark of the beast" is the speech, not the implanted microchip)!

- "In no case go into the then prevailing global unified religion, which of course does not serve our loving creator!"

Read through these pages. It gives me the impression that the people who would manage to avoid both the chipping and the dark religion in this absolutely beastly time, these people would have almost made it to "God".

Alberto Romero Rivera

The book of the former Jesuit Rivera is an urgent reading recommendation. He, too, writes in a sense as an insider who (involuntarily) as a child "crept in" or had been bettered into the high power circles and who, after many years, had awakened from his brainwashing and had left the criminal association of the Jesuits. This detachment is documented in the book worth reading and has actually cost him after a number of initially failed attempted murders then but by poisoning his life. All this is no proof of the correctness of his texts. However, he explains a lot and so the whole story seems very credible, especially since his statements elsewhere are confirmed in many respects.

A friend had sent the German translation of The Book of Alberto Romero Rivera, named: "Alberto Romero Rivera" to me. Sadly I did not find the english original. If someone has found the original in English language or further translations, please send it to me. Thanks in advance.

The most depressing theme of the present for me is the implantable microchip. At peacecalendar.de I wrote a lot about this:

The Friedenskalender.de focuses on some of today's major political issues. Contributions are not always up-to-date, but the information and links they contain continue to be of great importance to understanding how purposefully the planet's power elite is pursuing its destruction, the deception of humanity, and the isolation of human beings. The information can also illuminate some background to this page (plant animals and people.de):

What can we do?

Well, I do not know what's next. But after all, some people fear that we are somewhat in the spirit of the biblical apocalypse in a kind of end times. Against this background, the following considerations move.

The humans would, if they were to wake up and simply refuse the satanic system of power, presumably to this day have the power to avert this catastrophe, which in any case (even if we had no end time) will roll towards us.

However, I find it unrealistic that this will happen. Too much the less loving ones know the psyche of the people too routine they now drive the cart to the wall.

A heartfelt commitment to love and against Fascist satanic power can, however, noticeably ease the suffering that will befall human beings and other sentient beings. So it is still valuable to open your mouth, to wake people up and to oppose injustice, deceit and delusion.

Added to this is the need to protect oneself, especially in the present. If we really slide into the end times, then we will need many people who simply physically support and help each other. It's about stockpiling food, getting smaller amounts of gold (the smallest possible units to buy even small things, if there's only the implanted microchip), survival strategies, finding small communities of people, who want to live in love outside the religions and the system. Especially in recent times, for example, homeless people are increasingly hunted more cruel, tortured, expropriated and so on. Some of the homeless have come into this situation because they have denied the system for the rest of their lives in the spirit of the loving Creator. If you are really looking for the connection to the loving creator, this fate can flourish too, because the power elite pursues even the seemingly innocent "dropouts" with lack of perfection. But if you go through that time without letting yourself be turned aside by our loving Creator, then you may suffer less, as the apocalypse is described, than people who are more comfortable with the system have gone and the various ugly plagues have to endure.

In this sense, simply preparing for survival in difficult times is one of the tasks of a loving person.

Presumably it makes no sense to build a bunker, as there will be no safe place worldwide. It may be necessary for people who are in touch with our loving Creator to remain mobile in any way. In the beginning, it can be helpful to have a car or even a campervan that transports a lot of provisions and equipment. I say that as someone whose life was very critical of cars for environmental reasons. But now it's about survival. But it should also include a large backpack with a sleeping bag and a tent, because the car may be taken or it will not get through. Also, dealing with the seers Irlmaier and Nostradamus (via Rose Stern) may provide evidence of good places to survive. Another note was provided by a friend who mentioned the weak magnetic field over southern Brazil ("South Atlantic Anomaly"), which could possibly be less harmful to beam-weapon attacks. It is reported by the peoples of India, China and Islam that they openly represent slavery as a legitimate social model. They could overrun Europe and Russia after a world war. People without money (and that would be all Europeans according to the expropriation seen by Irlmaier) are for them from the outset slaves. Germany and large parts of Europe will probably soon become a trap in which the borders could be closed and in which then ugly conflicts with Salafists could take place until the enlargement of the wars on Germany, which is obviously recognizable even by the BND and anyway by the CIA are supported.

So there is probably no place on earth for which one could say today that he is safe (we can not say that anyway, we are not seers and all these sources are obviously already part of the satanic system from a spiritual point of view) ,

All I'm saying is that survival may be one of our most significant tasks. And it is important to stay in love, to share, to forgive and to accept one another.

To survive or prepare to survive and share, I remember the parable of the virgins and the wedding (Matthew 25: 1-13). It may be an indication that people who have secured the necessities of survival to survive this difficult time are not carelessly distributing those things to people who, despite known warnings, have not thought about it and if these things are really necessary for survival are. The parable could also be an indication that exactly the above cited clues to the preparations for survival just in the present time in the sense of our loving creator could.

If the persecution of free people becomes more violent, the powerful will offer some benefits to system loyalists. It will not be too many who will survive these crises and remain free of the system's bondage. The people trapped in the system will be virtually all chipped.

The survivors of free humans will probably be assigned the task of rebuilding this earth and reviving life. According to the Bible, the free surviving humans would be physically raptured out of this earth for the time when the earth, already completely destroyed by the satanic system, would be cleansed of all the less loving spirits. After that, the surviving humans who stayed with our loving Creator would rebuild the Earth. And for that, probably just survivors are needed, at least that's what I imagine. Survivors who have remained in touch with our loving Creator, because those who have turned away would risk to betray the earth again to the fallen angels.

One way or another, I imagine my task. This is not really comfortable, at least until the time when everything is over for the time being.

After that it might be as beautiful as we would have hardly ever experienced it before.

In any case, out of pure self-interest, I find it desirable to be one of those survivors who have stayed with our loving Creator. It is said that the people who remained in contact with the loving Creator would also receive a great deal of help in the end times, would be guided almost directly by him, so that they blindly always in front of their enemies safe places and helps can find. It is also implied that this end time, once it had begun in full severity, would take a limited number of years (I do not commit myself there, Bible Students read that out of the Apolalypse). The whole horror would therefore also have a foreseeable end, which most people who read this here would also experience. It will not be easy, as I said before, but it should be worthwhile in the very self-serving sense (and at the same time for the benefit of all humans, animals and plants and this wonderful earth).

Jegoo

"Jesus", "Christ", "Messiah", Maitrea, Mahdi, etc ... A whole series of comparable figures circulate in many religions and subtly convey the feeling that all these figures are ultimately the same person or something unitary, They all stand for a "savior" who frees us all from whatever, if we believe in him, honor him in the right way or whatever to do "right" to connect with him. It is evident to some of these "saviors" that they can not be identical with the figure of Yeshua of Nazareth, who according to biblical tradition was allegedly crucified nearly 2,000 years ago. In addition, there are a number of mythical family constellations, all of which are supposed to be identical to the family of Seth, Isis, and Horus, with Seth being equated by Masonic mystics with Jeshua of Nazareth. The Freemasons have also attempted to export this view subtly into the churches, but in my judgment, Jeshua of Nazareth alone in the traditional representation of his person is not identical with Seth or the analogous "godsons" of various parallel religions. This effort to portray all sorts of figures as identical to Yeshua suggests, in my opinion, that Yeshua might have a special role to play. If Yeshua of Nazareth, who had been crucified, were in reality insignificant, the Masons would not put him in the line of their mighty gods. So it seems more like Yeshua of Nazareth had a meaning that they would like to grant to their so powerful gods or sons of God.

A whole series of "Jesus" is currently physically on this earth and flocking around a more or less large group of worshipers around each. Quite apart from the fact that only one of them could be the "right" born-again Jesus (whichever), some of them behave in such a way that we as "Christian" Europeans would not accept this Jesuses as a born-again "Jesus". I speak of being worshiped, emphasizing, or simply making signs that would be "antichrist" according to the Bible. Nevertheless, the question remains as to whether Yeshua of Nazareth really existed and whether he is a person who should have an important meaning for us in a helpful sense.

With my basically unbelieving and critical claim I would say first: The whole mendacious Tam Tam for "Jesus" I'm not particularly interested! What matters to me is what a person has in their hearts, what he does, and maybe even if I can learn something from him. Whether he is a master then (oh dear, no master please, that can not be something good!) Or a saint (Oh dear, no saints please, that can not be good!) Or whoever he is, that he is sublime through his position, that should not interest me all or better said, I do not accept that a human should be sublime! In this sense, I found the Jesus, as I had come to know him in religious education, quite a remarkable man. Less meaningful to me was his alleged conscious Sacrifice on the cross, I never wanted to believe that this was something good. More impressed I was by preaching an active charity and today I am impressed by his rejection of temples, priests, and systems of power. I was impressed by a traditional criticism of "Jesus", which complained that "anyone" could perform miracles, but that's not what it was all about - yes, that's how I see it (apart from the fact that I can not perform miracles).

And now imagine, you are sitting in Braunschweig at the peace vigil and get to know a person who arranges the many question marks, I had and puzzle pieces that carry you around in life in half an hour in a way that everything fits together and you are really thankful for this help. And then that person tells you that he is Yeshua of Nazareth, more specifically that he is the born-again soul of Yeshua.

Oh dear!

What should I do with it? This was not funny for me. If it was true (and if Yeshua really was a really powerful, helpful person), then it would be like a 6 in the lottery. But if that person were lying or just wrong, it would not be so nice. Above all, what am I going to do now? I can only do it wrong! Am I at a distance, or am I following him and supporting him?

First sleep over it!

Jegoo was the first person ever to talk fruitfully about my questions about the connection between religions and conspiracy (yes, Jegoo was and is the person I met in Braunschweig around 2015 and who told me that he is Yeshua ). And not only that, Jegoo is still the only person who can point out a dividing line that makes sense to me between the forces that exploit, oppress, and systematically destroy the Earth in an ultimately connected network, and the forces that live in love for all living beings and protect the lives, that have themselves achieved a certain freedom and that could not be more or less caught up in the mendacious system and dizzy. Jegoo has explained so much to me about how we could free ourselves from the current trap, what a world might look like, what "dad" or our loving creator would wish for us. All the forces and ways for life contradicted in this fundamentally everything that we would expect about systems of power and political influence. Put simply, the people and forces that stand on the side of life are so much less obtrusive, quieter, "less educated" and as effective as we would expect as politically "educated" people. I understand the meaning behind all that Jegoo reports increasingly well even though many things also seem pretty gaga to me.

In short, I have no idea who Jegoo is. But I do not want to exclude that he could actually be the born-again Yeshua of Nazareth, with the picture I have so vaguely of the then Yeshua. And I do not know a single person living today, be it personally or be it from any traditions or media of which I could only say that approximately.

I am absolutely convinced of almost everything that Jegoo says and does. I am convinced that Jegoo is one of the few people who are useful to life on this planet and who can help us improve our situation and I feel that Jegoo has tremendous power and impact. That's what counts for me.

Yes, it would of course be a bad story if Jegoo was deliberately or mistakenly and falsely presumed to be Yeshua. It would also be stupid if I was then pulled into doubt with my support.

OK, isn't there a way I do not do anything wrong for both cases? Could I not know to use or at least take note of his information and could I not support him without having to firmly believe anything? - Well, that does not sound powerful and adequate if he really is Yeshua, that would be very lukewarm. But it would be better than if I let him down, if he really needed help, and it would be better than fighting, blocking, talking badly or even hurting him. When I consider how many millions of aid money is collected through questionable organizations for questionable purposes. When I consider how many people in the religions worship idols of which I know positively that they have an unfortunate power, that they are really our enemies - then it would really be so shameful, even if I'm someone else, who actually doesn't want to believe anything more, to listen to and / or support a single modest living person with manageable amounts, where there is much to suggest that he could help people and their lives? In fact, Jegoo has a multitude of people who have dealt with him and who, after some time, have turned away and fought him downright, without being able to give concrete reasons that could have justified a hostile attitude.

I understand that all the people who have to deal with Jegoo, as well as I, are very torn - precisely because of the difficult question just asked: "What am I doing in this situation?" But if I do not want to believe that Jegoo is a particularly dear and helpful person, but for the contrary have no valid clues, then I can go away silently, say good bye as appropriate as for example for a beggar and give him a little help on the way. Then these people would at least have left open the option not to have turned away from Jegoo (and that would be helpful even if Jegoo was just another powerful and meaningful person - and he is undoubtedly). Strangely enough, people who come in contact with us are subsequently led by their environment or else by various kinds of inspiration to turn away from us or especially from Jegoo in a hostile manner. It's obvious there's an energy in the air that is actually ripping people apart or making them aggressive. As I said, should there be any serious evidence of deliberate fraud or evil, a hostile avoidance would be appropriate. But in the hostility of various people against Jegoo I can not detect the existence of such information in any single case.

Further, I refuse to decide, or to tell with my authority the reader whether we are actually dealing with Jeshua, and I further refuse to decide if Yeshua should be meaningful in good and useful ways for humanity. Although I can present my wonderful connection to a very strong and interesting person on this homepage, I do not want to tell you with my authority that I present you Yeshua. And that also has another reason: Even if I knew for sure that Jegoo was the reincarnated Yeshua and if I had the opportunity to give you that certainty, the myth about Yeshua and his false "derivatives" is so inflated and poisoned that I think we need to have a more specific look, with whom we have to do it at Jegoo, what Jegoo stands for and what he does. It makes no sense for me to support Jegoo as an icon, but I have to judge for myself whether Jegoo does, pushes and intensifies things, which I also support and consider useful for life on this earth.

In other words, Jegoo is definitely not the Jesus of the Catholic Church, the Protestant Church, or any evangelical or super-Christian sect. He is certainly not Seth or any other "son of God". By the way, Jegoo also claims that Jeshua of Nazareth was conceived by a living man (is it possible that the cult around the "Immaculate Conception" was created by the Catholic Church to put Jesus in the ranks of the gods from human mothers, conceived by non human gods?). So Jegoo is not a figure that is comprehensively described in any religion or widespread way of thinking. But he is, as Jegoo says, the reincarnation of Yeshua of Nazareth, who was crucified about 1,000 or 2,000 years ago, who then went around with twelve disciples and had also proclaimed the man to be from our loving Creator. Jegoo also says that he could not just save people here, but that he could primarily help them with self-help through His words. Yes, and I support that out of conviction, because I am convinced of so much that Jegoo has explained to us.

Only on our own responsibility and uninhibited towards Jegoo, we can decide, how we behave towards Jegoo, as what we want to see him. If you just want to have answered the question whether Jegoo is really Jeshua, if you can not develop your own own interested connection to Jegoo from what Jegoo stands for and what you can learn about Jegoo via this homepage, then the first question, the question of whether Jegoo is actually Yeshua, may not really be significant.

Yes, and then that is the level where we are today friends. I do not know who Jegoo is. But what Jegoo had told me was meaningful and logical to me from the first moment. Jegoo always spoke and speaks from the perspective of a person who is connected to our loving Creator (and is always in conversation with him). And again: I do not know a single person, be it in person or as a publicly known person, who could even approximately and clearly display the line between the conspirators and destroyers of life and their angels and gods, the whole deceivers and seducers on this earth on the one hand, and the very few and mostly simple people who are connected with plants, animals and people in love on the other side. I do not know a person who can draw a picture of Yeshua's life as a person serving life and its creator, or who can tell as beautifully how life on earth was created by "Father" and protected by his modest possibilities. And I do not know a single person who can explain so intelligently what strong "weapons" we have in our hands to protect ourselves and this earth, at least to lessen our suffering on earth through our work. I understand why "nonviolence" is not an end in itself, but why it can make our commitment so effective and where the destroyers and enemies of life are in fact vulnerable. And those were the answers I had been looking desperately before and they are the reason why I support Jegoo.

Jems

And what kind of person is Jegoo? Phew, I do not really know. He is quite exhausted, so with his nerves and with his strength. He has experienced a lot of attacks, some attacks directly on his life, and he was repeatedly blocked in the most perfidious way. He carries scars and is physically weakened due to various attacks and still has pain today and all of this heals slowly. And yet somehow it is full of strength and zest for action. He's been through a lot in life and, I think you can put it that way, is sick, hurt. It is sometimes difficult for him to trust. It took a very long time for him to start trusting me (although he was always there for me, as well as for all people who were openly seeking his contact).

Jegoo is a person with weaknesses. I got to experience some. He did a lot of crap in life. Maybe it should be like that. But people who expect an infallible person from Jeshua can find enough "proof" in Jegoo that he is not. Jegoo was a rocker, he was even with the Satanists (just as a rocker) and has beaten in this time with other rockers and sometimes others hat to take something from him (his physical complaints are not from this period). Jegoo does not come from a "better home", he is "uneducated", but knows a lot of more important things. It is completely inconceivable to me that Jegoo could experience the things he says without a special connection to something that has nothing to do with his entire earthly life. He definitely does not advocate any further developed "rocker philosophy," even though one can still recognize behaviors that point to his past or background.

In any case Jegoo has said goodbye to the rockers (which does not mean that he would not continue to meet his then "friends" openly and amicably) and he would never have such dark or any tattoos added. He shows in a unique way how we can avoid the use of symbols and rites in order not to enter into the sombre connections to the gods.

Does that fit together? I do not know and I think there is no believable authority that can help us evaluate this (or do we want to ask the Pope?) I know that Jegoo has been around since I know him, making people awake, in one sense that I am completely behind it. I know that Jegoo supports people in a variety of emergencies, in a way that fully supports this. I know that Jegoo does not capitalize on what he says he is. On the contrary, he is constantly attacked and harmed. Jegoo pronounces things as he sees them, regardless of whether this is welcome, partly knowing that he can not (yet) be understood. I met many people who had to do with him. I met some people who turned their backs on Jegoo someday. None of the people who later talked very badly about Jegoo, could or wanted to attach to him things that would have burdened him in my view. By contrast, almost all of his enemies (yes, Jegoo has many enemies) more or less clearly opted either for an obvious path of groundless hostility or directly recognizable for a sinister spiritual path.

I would like to say: Unfortunately, I can not judge who Jegoo is. Of course, I can judge that Jegoo does not seduce people. On the contrary, he definitely leads to free oneself. And I can clearly recognize that with my mind. He reveals religious fraud, which is evident to anyone interested in these clues. You will find on the Internet many religious enlighteners, which similarly enlighten religious fraud. But all enlighteners I know come from evangelical or Catholic sects, are Muslims or esotericists, so they themselves have succumbed to a fraudulent religion. The only exceptions are the atheists, who are, after all, more religious than they appear, and who, by rejecting any spiritual perspective, blind them to the dangers of deceitful spirituality.

Jegoo suggests to LEAVE EVERY religion, he does not suggest to believe anything, especially nothing and no one to worship or adore, of course not himself. Every religion is recognizable as a seduction, which in any case is harmful to us. Jegoo shows us ways to see through this scam and he shows alternatives. So even in the worst case, which I think is very unlikely, that Jegoo would deliberately make a false statement about his identity, even in this case, it would be more harmful to go to a religious community than to support Jegoo or to take his information!

I know that Jegoo would be able to take care of himself, to be well, without our support, if he did not go the way, to help us humans and all kind life on this earth. On the one hand, Jegoo helps needy people who need help, on the other hand, he helps in my view quite the entire humanity in which he awakens us and in which he sends messages, information that I could hardly find in any other place so credible and meaningful, The help that we have provided in the circle of friends Jegoo so far, really affected the essentials and what was needed so that Jegoo was able to move and communicate.

I can affirm that ours and possibly your help is not in the slightest to make anyone feel well enough, beyond the bare minimum, or that someone would be lazy without working.

Jegoo says that now is the time to openly announce who he is from his point of view.

In addition, we ask for your support for our way or for the way from Jegoo, because Jegoo is constantly confronted with barriers that prevent him from moving forward.

If you want to support Jegoo, you can do so on our newly established page at gofundme.

<https://www.gofundme.com/kdk9rs-jens>

If you do not like the modalities, you can always contact me and discuss another way. By the way, since the establishment of the gofundme site, various aids have already been received in other ways.

Jegoo will be grateful for any support.

Please support Jegoo if you want to endorse and support what Jegoo does.

On the other hand, as you get conveyed on this page in the sense of Jegoo, it does not matter at all, which "judgment" our loving creator makes about you, because it is up to you if you want to connect with him. And that has nothing to do with money that you send to Jegoo. Maybe it connects you in a good way with people who receive help from Jegoo, which was only possible through your help.

A Message from Jens Gordon Gerbracht

protector of love

I am one of many

we are here with you,

in the dark valley

jegoo, in the old way pronounced: jeshoa, that's my name.

it is composed of jens derived by johannes, "the blessed" and gordon, from the Celtic, "from the great mountain".

the blunt added letters put out and voila, jegoo.

it gets even better ...

gerbracht, my aftermath: ger = "spear" = "lance"; bracht = "who brings it"

I came to bring the less dear into the love. Everyone has their own decision.

the path of nature in love with the feeling of love in oneself without hate and anger or bad conscience, his goal reveals itself.

everyone is on the path at birth, getting older and looking for the many ways made of tar, concrete, music, drugs, alcohol ...

yes, they are all looking for and become addicted. if they would just have stayed on the path.

well, everyone does fall, because the paved roads are also a "fall".

they mirror what maybe everyone is looking for? with light, mica and warmth? together artificial love?

Could that be the seduction in a tempting more comfortable world?

then when you enter it, your way of the world, the conditions will come. If you want to live here, you have to pay, no matter what.

People fall in love, such a nonsense! if i live in love, i can intensify this love harmonically, but i do not fall in love, right?

so, my question to you:

Can we live in good love with plants, animals and people? that a feeling of love exists in a connection between the three types?

we are here to raise this love in you, that we live together in love. even for those who have entered into a pact with the lesser dear (lord and god of civilization = religion = satan), they can return to the path, for satan himself had hold no word or pact.

Be aware of what it means to see for yourself! perhaps in love with all dear creatures, to live in a connection with feeling?

could that be the path of "virtue" to our dear vaddi?

your jeshoa

The implantet Micrchip

At the present, it seems to have come so far as it stand in the book of Revelation:

A "Start-up Firm" presented the implantable microchip at the Cebit

An editor of the FAZ allows himself to be "chipped" in front of the cameras.
Youtube.com/watch?v=TLb9r48JCIg

The ZDF propagates the abolition of cash as a means of barter and calls for the implantation of a microchip as a "better solution" to paying:
Youtube.com/watch?v=Fbu7bbqZ9w

Galileo reports that 50.000 citizens have already been chipped

These happenings are compliant with what was prophesized in the book of Revelation nearly 2.000 years ago:

Revelation, chapter 13

16 And it (another beast that that comes out of the Earth; which has two horns and speaks both like a lamb and a dragon) causes the small and the great, the rich and the poor, the free and the enslaved to mark themselves on the right hand or on the brow.

17. And that no man might buy and sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

18. This calls for wisdom! Let him that hath insight count the number of the beast, for it is the number of a man; and this number is Six hundred three score and six.

Revelation Chapter 14

9. And the third angel followed this and spoke with a loud voice. If anyone worships the Beast and his image or puts his mark on their hand or brow

10. They will drink from the wine of God's wrath which has been loudly poured into his cup of wrath and shall be tortured with fire and sulfur before the holy angels and before the Lamb;

11. And the smoke and their suffering will rise from eternity to eternity; they who have worshipped the beast will have no rest day and night.

Revelation Chapter 16.

2. The first went and poured his vial upon the Earth; and there was an evil plague upon the people who wore the beast's mark and worshipped him.

Revelation Chapter 19

20. And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone.

I do not consider the Bible to be "God's Word". The publisher was a Roman Caesar (Constantine), who's predecessors followed and murdered Jesus and the early Christians. In the face of the fast spreading Christianity, the "microsoft-strategy" to gather and incorporate the movement was the quickest method in order to maintain power. This clearly marked the beginnings of the church and the emergence of the Bible.

Presumably, the Bible contains many contents, that either state the simple historical facts, or else a part of the spiritual knowledge i.e. the thoughts of the early Christians, which could not be eliminated on the grounds of their truthfulness, without suffering the loss of those Christians who had already begun to gather together.

But how do we now understand or interpret the book of Revelation if you join me in agnostic thinking, if you suspect lies everywhere and if you do not want to believe anything?

This book which contains around twenty pages, describes crude stories which nobody can imagine. Even though parallels to our modern times can be guessed if one wants to. Most of the parallels require phantasy and a lot of interpretation space but the parallel with the chip has a similarity which cannot be so easily dismissed with a wave of the hand.

There are diverse conspiracy books which have for decades stated the prognoses of the insertion of the microchip, the parallel connection to the book of Revelation with all the consequences which are also written there.

In the end, each has to decide for himself how to evaluate the psychological and spiritual effects of the microchip.

The fact is that it is here now and now the people in power have the means to abolish cash, to monitor each payment (even pocket money and tips) and even prevent this.

A wealthy citizen, who has some thousands of Euros in the bank, could be standing in the supermarket at the till where the sales woman could declare to him that his chip, or he himself, had no payment validity. The cause of this could come from an inappropriate comment from this citizen on the telephone which has shortly before been heard. For this reason alone, all consciously aware and active citizens must act with the utmost vehemence against those who want the abolition of cash. There are many other statements from the politicians in which the effects of their suggestions would have been far less severe, who have had to stand down from office.

The most decisive question with regard to the microchip implant is the possible spiritual and mental takeover of each citizen on Earth who takes on this chip.

The pictures of insects, who become fully remote-controlled from a microchip over the head are known to us. Of course the control takes place through the electrodes which are placed directly into the brain which is not possible when planted into the hand.

On the other hand, we know that our body is controlled through electrical impulses coming from the brain and that from outside the nervous system, low frequency electromagnetic waves can be used to transmit impulses. A lot of literature concerning the theme of Harp- antennae quotes technical sources and also patented literature which describe the targeted influencing of the mood by these low frequency impulses. A targeted influencing of the mood, driving force or lack of will, aggression or passiveness could be in an obvious manner, easily projected through the hand.

For the sake of completeness, and without commenting upon the plausibility of my following statements, I would like to mention, that certain sources in internet connect the effectiveness of the microchip with morgellons and aluminum which according to these sources are purposefully brought into the atmosphere, our food and into the drinking water.

I can say that the existence of morgellons in my circle of acquaintances has been verified. Furthermore, there is a statement that the system of cell-phone masts have been made to comply with communicating with individual persons. These facts cannot be proved, they should however be considered.

Our understanding of the workings of the microchip will keep us searching in the dark for a long time. Basically we should know that occult knowledge with regard to the microchip is a fact from which we are being kept. (We learned also by coincidence that the back doors of the firm of Microsoft have built in chips which hold in store special functions for our own computer chips which are not there for our use.) The modern technology has opened up possibilities for which our own envisioning is not yet capable. In the face of the decision to accept the implanting of microchips, I would preferably take all the conjectures seriously rather than discard them as theories.

Per example the statements of diverse conspiracy theorists who state that accepting the microchip would be the last free deed which the person undergoes, because, after that, he would be manipulated. In Revelation it is often said that the people who take on the mark of the beast continue to adore him in spite of increasing problems and suffering. This could be an indication that in Revelation, a prophecy is given which points to the inability of these people to make decisions. Some people take the pure spiritual/ritualistic workings of such interventions very seriously.

A special indication of the danger of the implantation of microchips is the way the powerful try to drive this forward. Despite all the biblical warnings, the mass media seem to stand under a certain pressure to bring the microchip into a positive light and leave aside any critical viewpoints. That no television reporter has tried to reveal the dangers which the Bible speaks of, openly cannot be based upon lack of interest on the reporter's side or for any other public response reasons.

We can make it clear that the real powerful are the ones that worship Satan, which we can read from a large number of sources and need to have no doubts about. That means, what we believe or don't believe is of no matter- the powerful who we experience now in reality, are doing their utmost to fulfill the prophecies which are laid out in the Bible.

Should it actually come to this, that people who do not accept the implantation should be threatened with death, actually be left alone in their despair and be hounded in every relationship, (which is not the reality in the present), then it would be more obvious that the powerful have an immense interest in the microchip which reaches far and beyond a simple method of payment.

If the chip were a part which had no influence on the psyche or the spiritual personality, why wouldn't the plastic card of which we have many in our pockets, also do the job just as well? Because terrorists before hijacking airplanes could take them out of their pockets? That you can tell to any other idiot, not to me. The logical consequence would be that it would be worthwhile, even for people with no beliefs or spiritual thinking to avoid the implantation of a microchip. And expose themselves to all kinds of ridicules, perhaps even death. The extreme brutality and the removal of all means of defending the human rights is a strong indication of how much the powerful want to take away from us.

When we assume, what we, within reason have to be afraid of, namely that the microchip would make us controllable, then this would be completely clear:

A perfidious dictatorship is out of the question. The powerful have bought the politicians. (See Bilderberg meeting, etc.)

They control the media, who all find themselves in the hand of a few oligarchs. Please don't tell me that these oligarchs can perform in a way which is free of the interests of the high finance!) With the complete psychological control, the citizen would be robbed of all earthly and spiritual options. The mightiest would not have to continue with their advertising and lies program which keeps us entertained. They wouldn't have to offer their thugs in politics, commerce, media and religion so much wealth and success, because these wouldn't have the choice of choosing the other free side. Then they could enslave everyone and treat them in the same manner as the chickens which are held in batteries.

The picture of a punishing God is not really appropriate for me. The idea is rather that we have the choice, depending how we orientate ourselves spiritually during our lives, to find our way, after death, to the spiritual beings with whom we wish to connect.

From many sides, it is said that this is the time of decision. I have heard this from Esoterics, Satanists and followers of various religions.

Again, from many sources and also following this point of view, the Creator would not reject the people with microchips. Rather, the people with the microchips would be so influenced that their free choice would be lost to that God after death who has created the world out of love.

If you make it clear with which stringency, the powerful are progressively waging war against humanity, against the environment and the whole of creation, then it is also conceivable which energy lies in the conflict behind the possible existence of spiritual beings on earth.

I will describe a possible development in a gloomy way. Reasons to believe that these things could happen cannot be denied.

I don't have to be a believer to recognize that the powerful are rapidly destroying and damaging all requirements for life on Earth.

Certainly, there has never been a comparative time on Earth in which the people have had to fear such catastrophes. Can you imagine that in advance of any impending third world war, if people became satanized at the command of Satanists (because of microchips), if these people became zombies and would work on a further destruction of the Earth, then a time would come, when new beginning would arise as the only solution, with those few who had stayed true and resisted the madness.

I imagine, in the face of this pending madness, a farmer with a wheat field in which a fungus is spreading. The spreading was caused through a lie in which the spores have convinced the wheat ears to take this on. On thinking further, a contamination of the wheat ears would not be possible without the conscious accepting of the fungus. Nevertheless the fast spreading of this fungus among the otherwise good natured wheat would take place through ignorance and indifference.

The farmer would be omnipotent in the sense that he could heal each ear of wheat or he could destroy all the fungus with one dose of Glyphosate if he was prepared to use this poison. Could you imagine that he would come to a point where he would burn down the whole field because there was no other solution? Imagine that the wheat ears had souls. Can you imagine that the farmer would then rather start with a new a new life on the earth with these hundred ears which had resisted the temptation of listening to the life threatening voices of the fungus?

This is in the meanwhile my personal picture of the Apocalypse. I do not believe that Revelation 1:1 is correct, especially in the way in which God is described although I can imagine that something similar is pending. If we really had the chance of not having to live with this destructive force of Satan (the high finance) in the free world, then this picture would have something quite consoling.

These have been strong pictures and I will not force you to believe any of it as I have no more knowledge than you. Open your eyes and see what is happening in the world! I think, because of what we irrefutably know, that we must do everything in our power to stop the implantation of the microchip. That means that we have to become very loud when this is advertised and when tests are made to implant them. I also think, that it would be worthwhile that the few, which we reliably know to be sufficient, would do everything in their power not to accept the chip. Even if this should lead to hunger and death "the living will envy the dead."

Should it come that far, then we really have nothing more to fear.

A small contribution perhaps to console a few at the end of this article:

The people who do not let themselves be misled by binding themselves to any spiritual beings other than our loving Creator, meaning all religions with their false teachings which Revelation suggests, and seek a loving bond to all the creatures of this Earth and refuse to take on the microchip, start a life outside of this terrible illusion and heartlessness.

They begin to live without money, to share amongst each other and to support each other. I assume that the loving Creator, against which the satanic forces fight, will do everything to support his true followers so that they can endure the suffering and deny the chip even under the extreme pressure of pending death. It has been prophesized in Revelation in a similar way.

It should be mentioned that apparently, no rituals or symbols are necessary to be heard by Him. Anything else is not mentioned in the New Testament. To call him is enough to be heard that is the difference between our Creator and the fallen angels. In this simple way you can recognize if the loving Creator should be called to, or the worship of other angels who can be contacted through rituals and symbols. As stated, it is of no importance if you believe anything. From experience we see that Atheists begin to pray in extreme situations. Should you come into such a situation then remember these lines. The free choice, to adhere to the various idols and religions, or to remember the message of our loving Creator who created the plants, animals and Man out of love and who has a good plan for us. Should somebody want to force you, using all manner of threats, then you can think if these threats have something to do with the subject of this "confused " text.
